

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations	vii
Introduction: Probing the Limits of Categorization Christina Morina and Krijn Thijs	1
Part I. Approaches
Chapter 1 Bystanders: Catchall Concept, Alluring Alibi, or Crucial Clue? Mary Fulbrook	15
Chapter 2 Raul Hilberg and His “Discovery” of the Bystander René Schlott	36
Chapter 3 Bystanders as Visual Subjects: Onlookers, Spectators, Observers, and Gawkers in Occupied Poland Roma Sendyka	52
Chapter 4 “I am not, what I am”: A Typological Approach to Individual (In)action in the Holocaust Timothy Williams	72
Chapter 5 The Many Shades of Bystanding: On Social Dilemmas and Passive Participation Froukje Demant	90
Chapter 6 The Dutch Bystander as Non-Jew and Implicated Subject Remco Ensel and Evelien Gans	107

Part II. History

Chapter 7 Photographing Bystanders Christoph Kreutzmüller	131
Chapter 8 The Imperative to Act: Jews, Neighbors, and the Dynamics of Persecution in Nazi Germany, 1933–1945 Christina Morina	148
Chapter 9 Martin Heidegger’s Nazi Conscience Adam Knowles	168
Chapter 10 Natura Abhorret Vacuum : Polish “Bystanders” and the Implementation of the “Final Solution” Jan Grabowski	187
Chapter 11 Defiant Danes and Indifferent Dutch? Popular Convictions and Deportation Rates in the Netherlands and Denmark, 1940–1945 Bart van der Boom	206
Chapter 12 The Notion of Social Reactivity: The French Case, 1942–1944 Jacques Semelin	224
Part III. Memory
Chapter 13 Ordinary, Ignorant, and Noninvolved? The Figure of the Bystander in Dutch Research and Controversy Krijn Thijs	247
Chapter 14 Hidden in Plain View: Remembering and Forgetting the Bystanders of the Holocaust on (West) German Television Wulf Kansteiner	266
Chapter 15 Stand by Your Man: (Self-)Representations of SS Wives after 1945 Susanne C. Knittel	291
Chapter 16 “Bystanders” in Exhibitions at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum Susan Bachrach	309
Epilogue I: A Brief Plea for the Historicization of the Bystander Norbert Frei	336
Epilogue II: Saving the Bystander Ido de Haan	343
Index	355